

3 Easy Ways to Boost Test Scores

Here are some helpful tips that will help your learners prepare for their certification, licensing, and high-stakes exams.

1

Practice

As the old saying goes, "Practice makes perfect." Make sure you are giving your learners the practice they need to succeed on their certification, licensing, and high-stakes exams. With content available for anytime, anywhere access, adult learners can fit practice into their busy schedules.

2

Simulation

Many learners walk into high-stakes exams shaking in their boots. Make sure your learners know exactly what to expect the day of the exam by providing simulation tests. Not only will this help calm and prepare learners, but it will give them an accurate idea of how they will do on the actual exam.

Culture

As Henry Ford famously said, "Whether you think you can or think you can't-- you're right." It is critical to create a culture of positivity before an exam. Make sure that throughout your review, you are keeping instruction focused with your learner's larger goals in context. The mind is a powerful tool and has a unique gift for making things happen that don't seem possible.

Ensure College & Career Readiness

Northstar Workforce Readiness offers affordable, easy-to-use, online practice and preparation programs for adult learners and post-secondary programs. Our programs are designed to improve scores on Allied Health certification and licensing exams, PRAXIS™ tests, the GED® Test, as well as prepare learners for college courses. The rigorous, high-quality content is used for practice, instruction, and review.

Why it Works

Northstar Workforce Readiness' post-secondary solutions provide:

- 24/7 anytime, anywhere access with immediate feedback
- Real-time reporting and grading to help inform instruction
- Resources for intervention, retention, and skills mastery
- Rigorous, high-quality content for practice, instruction, and review
- Full-length practice tests for certification exams*

I created a presentation to show what Northstar Workforce Readiness could offer. As soon as everyone saw the program, they knew it was needed.

— Karen Davis
Allied Health Program Specialist
Virginia College

Situation

Davis' first observation when she came to Virginia College was the lack of an adequate way to prepare students for Allied Health testing. As the program director, she spent countless hours creating practice tests for the students by pulling questions from sample tests that she had on file. After the students took the practice tests, teachers were then required to hand-grade each test. Additionally, Virginia College's faculty still had no way to track overall student progress.

Solution

Davis called upon Northstar Workforce Readiness, an affordable, easy-to-use, online practice and preparation program designed to help students improve scores on Allied Health certification and licensing exams.

Results

Northstar Workforce Readiness gives Virginia College students the flexibility and convenience to access the program remotely from anywhere with an Internet connections, or to print tests for completion from home. Students have thrived with more autonomy, and instructors have been relieved of some of the manual work related to assessing students, allowing them to focus on student data analysis, student progress, and improvement.
